By the latest news from the sugar growing districts, the crops about to be taken off promises to be an unusually large one. Grinding has commenced on most of the plantations, and sugar in large quantities will shortly find its way to the capital for exportation.

The coffee crop on the Island of Hawaii, though small, is reported to be looking remarkably well. The Act to regulate the Currency takes effect from this day, and it remains to be seen what its effect will be on the community of the Islands. On the 29th ultimo the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce held a meeting, at which the following resolution was passed:

"Resolved, That on and after December 1st the members of the Chamber of Commerce agree to receive and pay out certificates of deposits, for all amounts over ten dollars, as gold, in all transactions among themselves, and where practicable with others."

J. B. ATHERTON, Secretary.

Section 3 of the Currency Act provides that, "From and after December 1st, 1884, gold and silver coins, other than the coins of the United States and the Hawaiian Kingdom, shall be received in the Treasury at a rate not exceeding their bullion value for Government dues, duties and taxes."

Exchange has been sold for 1 1/2 to 2 percent. The demand was in excess of the supply, and orders have consequently been reduced.

The only arrivals during the week were the bkine Kitsap and bk Hope from Puget Sound, both vessels have made long passages. Other vessels are overdue from the Coast, and long passages may be anticipated, in view of the prevailing southerly winds.

The departures were bk Geo S Homer for Portland, bk W G Irwin for San Francisco, bkine Amalia for Port Townsend.

The P M S S Australia, due on Saturday last had not arrived up to the hour of going to press.

Holiday goods have arrived in large quantities, and the local dealers are making grand displays. The sale of horses recently imported by Messrs. Milen Bros. took place last week, but the prices realized were not satisfactory to the vendors. A sale of valuable real estate takes place to-day at the saleroom of E. P. Adams, the property of the late Simon K. Kaal.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The sugar mill at Kilauea, Kauai, will commence grinding to-day.

The schr Waimanalo brought 80 bags rice and pia from Koloa.

The Mokoli brought 719 bags sugar, 42 sheep, 10 pigs, and 50 bags potatoes from Molokai.

The bark W H Bessie, and the bark Coloma are both overdue from Portland, O, en route for Hongkong. They will both call here and will take Chinese passengers if their agents, Messrs R W Laine & Co, can procure any.

The schr Sarah and Eliza brought 526 bags of paddy from Koolau.

The star Kapilani brought 292 bags paddy from Ewa.

The bark Halia will finish discharging early this week. She will either leave for San Francisco or Portland.

The schr Luka took yesterday a very large load of miscellaneous mds for Koolau. Owing to the southerly wind she was obliged to be towed out by the tug Pele.

The Iwalani will arrive next Thursday from Hamakua. She will leave again the Sunday following.

The term Eva will be hauled alongside the P M S S Co's wharf to take in sugar next Monday. She will leave for the Coast soon after the arrival of the bkine Eureka, probably within a fortnight.

The schr Kakaunohi will soon be hove down to be re-coppered and to have her bottom cleaned.

The bark Abbie Carver is making preparations for sailing for Hongkong early next week.

The schooner Ka Moi has completed repairs and is now being painted. She has a carrying capacity of nearly 3500 bags of sugar. She will shortly resume her fortnightly trips to Laupahoehoe.

About six vessels are being repaired, and most of them are preparing for the sugar season.

The Likileke brought 187 pks sugar, 26 bags potatoes, 20 bags coffee, 50 bags corn, 8 horses and 4 orates oranges from Kahului.

The Halekaka brought 224 bags sugar from Pepeekeo.

The Kinan brought 42 head cattle, 11 calves and 167 pks sundries from windward ports. She experienced very rough weather on the coast of Hawaii and Maui.

The star W G Hall arrived yesterday morning at 2 o'clock from windward ports with 6985 pks sugar. She will leave again next Wednesday at 4 p.m.

The bkine Kitsap, Capt D Robinson, arrived early yesterday morning, 34 days from Port Townsend. She is consigned to Messrs H Hackfeld & Co, and is docked at the foot of Fort street. She passed a large American steamship on the 7th November, steering for San Francisco.

The W G Hall brought 5000 bags sugar, 113 bags coffee, 90 bags awa, 187 pks sundries, 17 hides, 1 horse, and 1 donkey from Hawaii.

The Maunokawai brought 500 bags rice and 300 bags paddy, and the Rob Roy, brought 200 bags rice from Koolau.

Star C R Bishop brought 797 bags sugar, 91 bags rice, 34 bags pia, 70 hides and 2 horses. She will be laid up for a while.

The schr Kauikauouli arrived yesterday from Koolau, Hawaii, being unable to land the machinery for J M Horner's New Sugar Mill, as the weather was very rough. On Tuesday of last week a boat manned by four of the crew and the mate attempted to land cargo, but ere they reach the land the boat was smashed to pieces, the crew narrowly escaped death, one of them was severely wounded about the legs. On Thursday she left for Honolulu. She leaves again to-day.

The star C R Bishop is out of commission at present.

The bk Abbie Carver sails for Hongkong at 7 o'clock this morning with about 210 Chinese passengers, including 4 women and 1 child.

The Alameda left yesterday at noon for San Francisco with the following freight: 9257 pks sugar, 1604 bags rice, 1869 bchs bananas, 3610 pcs sugar cane, 384 pcs hides, 550 sheepskins, 44 bags coin containing $47,877.53, making a total valuation of $90,104.48.

THE CHOLERA IN EUROPE.

HUMBERT IV.

King of Italy and Visitor and Friend of his Plague-Stricken Subjects.

A more striking contrast in the relations between ruler and subject is not conceivable than that now seen in two of the great cities in Europe. The Czar of Europe is in Warsaw, the capital of Poland, protected by the services of spies and an imposing army of military. A thousand arrests have been made during his stay in that city, but notwithstanding every precaution and risk of certain death to any unauthorized person approaching the autocrat, nobody would be surprised to hear that he had fallen a victim to violence. A section of his wretched and disaffected people, no one can say how numerous, nor how near his person at any time—some even in the ranks of his guards—are thirsting for his blood, and his appearance in public at all is an act of courage which contrasts with the seclusion of the earlier part of his reign. Shifting the scene to Naples, in Italy, where hundreds of people are dying of cholera every day, King Humbert IV is at the head of the noble men and women who, at great risk to personal safety and their life, but with confidence in the good will and affection of the people, visit them in their stricken homes, and by large gifts and gentle ministrations, do their utmost to assuage the horrors of cholera in the meanest and filthiest districts of the towns and cities afflicted with it. The lovely and amiable Queen Marguerite is at her husband's side in this labor of love, a ministering angel to the needs of the poorest of her subjects. What gain follows the moral influence of kingly and queenly example in these instances will never be known. The whole Royal Family of Italy, excepting the children, and the most cultured and the best of the sons and daughters of the nation vie with the amiable people at its head, in acts of practical beneficence which dignify human nature, and relieve, with heavenly beauty, the dark horrors of the pestilence.

Italy is suffering more from the outbreak of the cholera this year than any other country. The plague soon did its worst in France, where, as a rule, hygienic conditions are superior to those of the neighboring country, but in Italy, not only is the loss of life appalling, but material prosperity is checked by the stopping of industrial work and the partial cessation of business. As the year is so far advanced, and the season of cool weather is approaching, there is hope that, at the latest, in a few weeks' time, we shall read that the plague is stayed. When this time shall come, the authorities of all the towns and cities visited by it, and of all which need equally sanitary improvements will, it is trusted, improve the occasion to prevent its return by the timely outlay of money in their introduction. Cholera is preventible by these means, and surely the praiseworthy spirit evidenced by the King and Queen and the leading people of Italy, during the period of the visitation of cholera will be continued afterward until the cities and towns of the Kingdom shall be protected against its recurrence, by effective means which are products of the intelligent and humanitarian ingenuity of the age.

Humbert IV, King of Italy, was born March 14, 1844, the eldest son of Victor Emmanuel, afterwards King of Sardinia, and the first King of a united Italy, and the Archduchess Adelaide of Austria. He took part in the movement of 1859, for the unification of Italy. This grew out of the alliance of Sardinia with France, which began during the Crimean war and was cemented by the marriage of the Princess Clotilde, Humbert's sister, and daughter of Victor Emmanuel, with Prince Napoleon, in 1859. The war between France and Sardinia on one side and Austria on the other, followed hard upon this union. It was favorable to the allies, but was unexpectedly terminated by the treaty of Villa-Franca, which preceded the Treaty of Peace of Zurich by a few months. Under the provisions of this arrangement King Victor Emmanuel obtained Western Lombardy, part of the Papal States and the Duchies of Parma and Modena. Succeeding revolutions led to Victor Emmanuel being made King of Italy, in February, 1861. At that time Rome and Venetia were not included in a united Italy. Prince Humbert took an active part in the stirring events of the times. He assisted in the work of reorganizing the Kingdom of the two Sicilies, and in July, 1862, visited Naples and Palermo, where he shared the popularity of Garibaldi. In the war of 1866, between Prussia and Austria, Italy was the ally of Prussia, and an Italian army under General Cialdini, invaded Venetia. Of this army Humbert commanded a brigade with the title of Lieutenant-General. He was present at the battle of Custoza, where he greatly distinguished himself. The crushing defeat of the Italian army there was more than offset by the success of the Prussian arms, and the restoration of peace added the remaining districts of Lombardy with Venetia, to the growing Kingdom of Italy. In 1868 Humbert married his cousin, the Princess Marguerite of Savoy, daughter of the Duke Ferdinand of Genoa, brother of King Victor Emmanuel. The only child born to this union is Prince Emanuel, Prince of Naples, who is now fifteen years old. After the outbreak of the war between France and Germany, in 1870, the French garrison was withdrawn from Rome, which was seized by the Italian troops. Humbert then made the "Imperial City" his residence. Victor Emmanuel died January 9, 1878, when Humbert became the second King of United Italy. In November of the same year a man named Giovanni Passanante attempted to assassinate him while he was entering Naples in a carriage, but he escaped with a slight scratch.

During the reign of King Humbert Italy has steadily advanced in wealth and standing among the nations. Recent budgets have shown surpluses, and the army and navy of the Kingdom are strong. Popular education has been improved, but illiteracy is still great; according to the census of 1881, the average number of the population above six years of age who could not read nor write was 61.94 per cent. During 1882 Italy did a foreign trade amounting to about five hundred million dollars. There are some six thousand miles of railroads open in Italy, and the completion of the existing system has been provided for by legislation. Personally King Humbert is exceedingly popular, and his Queen is much beloved.

Emigrants From Japan to the United States.

[In view of the expected arrival of a number of Japanese here, the following taken from Bradstreet's is of interest.—Ed.]

It appears that the emigration to the United States has at last commenced in Japan. The Government has hitherto discouraged all attempts to leave the country, but now sanctions it to a certain extent. Within the last few months over two hundred peasants or petty farmers have left Japan to settle in Western States, and they will be followed by large numbers. The Government, however, is averse to permitting emigrants to leave Japan who are no experienced tillers of the soil. It does not, and justly at that, desire to see Japanese in the United States or elsewhere in the capacity of menials. The agricultural classes, however, are wedded to their pursuits, and there is no danger of their doing ought to offend the prestige of this land of the rising sun. In so far as this is concerned America is to be congratulated on these adjuncts to western industry. The Japanese peasantry are as industrious as they are frugal, temperate and skilled in agriculture. The rich soil of the Northwestern States will prove a very land of Ophir to these hard-working immigrants; for Japan is far from being a very fertile country, a fact which the laborious and universal artificial irrigation fully demonstrates.
